EVANSVILLE, Ind., July 2d, 1860. EDITORS JOURNAL .- In your paper of this date, I observe that I am charged with having been "active in 1858" in bringing R. J. Ryan, Esq., into this District to make speeches for Judge Hovey and against Judge Niblack, who at that time was the regularly nominated candidate for Congress of the Democratic party. The charge does me gross injustice. I not only had nothing to do with the matter, but did not know Mr. Ryan was coming here till the announcement was made public in the Journal Had I known it was in contemplation to invite Mr. Ryan to visit this District and city, I should have done all in my power to prevent his coming. Its editor, however, is not very well posted in Illinois politics, for he publishes an old, stale falsehood about Lincoln voting against supplies for the army in Mexico, and copies from the Evansville Enquirer a base forgery, in reference to certain resolutions said to have been passed at Springfield, Ill., in 1854.
